2025 Fourth Quarter Award Recipient

With an enthusiasm and dedication that shines through no matter her role, Administrative Assistant, Care Worker and Lifestyle Assistant, Kiwi, has been recognised in the There to Care Awards.

Kiwi demonstrates remarkable versatility; one day she is providing essential support in her admin duties, the next she is working in the Memory Support Unit, and on others, she is helping residents stay motivated and engaged through social activities.

"I love what I do. It's fun and it's busy, no two days are the same," she says.

However, it's the special bonds and moments she shares with residents that are the highlight of her day.

"Recently one resident kept asking me what my Christian name was. I told him it was Tangi and he said, 'That's a beautiful name', and I thought to myself that he might not remember it."

"When I saw him a few days later, he said, 'Tangi, how are you?' And now every morning, he'll call me by my real name."

Having worked in aged care for 20 years, Kiwi clearly remembers the reason why she pursued this career; her grandparents.

"The move into aged care was more of a personal one for me. My dad died when I was two years old, and my grandparents took me, my mum and my three siblings in and helped my mum raise us," she says.

On her award win, Kiwi says she was shocked as she usually shies away from the spotlight.

"I was quite shocked, but grateful. I'm not one for attention, I find joy celebrating other people's wins," she says.

Thanks Kiwi, for being there to care.
